

“Day Dreamers” - a word from Chris Hill

2006 - The Year of the Unexpected Miracles

Chris Hill

I have been in fervent prayer over these past few months, seeking God's Will for the New Year. You see, God does not live in the realm of Time. Yes, He inhabits this realm of Time, even as He inhabits and sustains all things in all realms. But He is not limited to any particular realm because all the realms are His creation and exist at His pleasure and by His command.

So we understand that God is not limited to our time based on linear existence. He exists in Eternity and then speaks His Will into the realm of Time. His position of Holy separation enables Him to know the End and the Beginning at the same time. Because He is not limited to this linear reality. He knows all; past, present, and future right in His Eternal Now.

That is why we who are believers need not seek the ungodly counsel of root-workers or fortunetellers, tea readers or crystal ball-gazers, or any others who attempt to discern the future through witchcraft or other occultic practices. All we need to do is to seek the face of our God. For He and He alone exists in a position to see the whole story and then He is gracious enough to make His will known to those who dare to ask, seek, and knock.

We can discover the Will of God for our lives, our families, our nations, and our world, through the power of prayer. Our Destiny is a Destination for us, but to our God destiny is already Predestined. The future is a mystery to us, but to God the future is already History. A fixed fact that is hid in God to be revealed to those of us who seek him.

How He keeps the realms of the past, present, and the future all straight is beyond my limited ability to comprehend and this is one of the many reasons that I praise Him -because He is separate enough, and Holy enough, and Perfect enough to know it All and yet He cares so deeply for His children that He allows us to see glimpses of our Destiny through the power of prayer.

These glimpses become the dreams and the visions that the Bible talks to us about in the book of Acts. We are to be the prophetic generation that seeks, speaks, and lives the Will of God in the earth.

What a privilege we have in prayer to talk to the author of History and have Him share with us the outcomes. To not have to walk in darkness, through the midnight maze of tomorrows, but through the power of prayer to be given a flashlight that allows us to see, if only in part, where we are going.

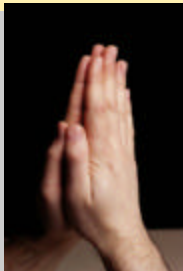

Others may seek the counsel of men, and some sadly seek the counsel of demons but I rejoice that we can seek the counsel of God. For this reason, I stop everything toward the end of the year and take the time to bombard the heavens with prayer believing in faith to receive divine direction for my life, my household and our ministry.

I seek the Lord for prophetic sermons for the generation. I seek the Lord for prophetic sermons for the Nations that I am called to speak to. I seek the Lord for prophetic sermons for the many Churches, Outreaches and Conferences that God has assigned me to speak to throughout the coming year. I seek the Lord for direction for our growing ministry, direction for my friends and fellow pastors, direction for our sons in the ministry, and even for myself and immediate family.

And each year God has been faithful to give us a divine glimpse. A quick peek into the already written book of HIStory so that we, as a ministry, can be prepared to be willing and compliant servants to the sovereign Will of God. Many believers wrestle against the Will of God for their lives because they have never truly asked God for His will and really do not know it. I beg you beloved, as your brother in Christ; to seek God's will for your life.

While in prayer, I believe the Lord spoke to me, not in an audible voice but within my Spirit. He told me that in 2006 we should expect the unexpected. That unusual blessings and opportunities will begin to present themselves to God's people and so we must be warned of this, lest we shun the blessing of God simply because it appears in an unusual form.

Moses did not look like a deliver when hidden in a pitch covered basket and floating, like a refuse, down the muddy banks of the Nile - and yet he was. Jesus did not look like the God of the universe, while lying in a manger - and yet He was. Nor did He look like a conquering King, while hanging from the bows of Calvary's Tree - and yet He was.

God is the God of the unexpected and this year I believe that God's providence, power, and provision will not come in and through the usual sources but that God will utilize the unexpected, the unusual, and the overlooked to bring great blessing to His people.

Expect the Unexpected - for 2006 will be the Year of the Unusual.
